

Prompts for Generative AI Chats

To Create Interview Questions to Help You Practice

Use the prompts below to generate potential interview questions for an upcoming job interview to help you practice. Replace the information in the square brackets to make it relevant to your job search.

Get Started

Sample Prompts

What are five interview questions a [position title] in the [industry type] industry may be asked in a job interview?

What interview questions could a hiring manager at a [type of company] company ask an applicant about their ability to do the job for a [position title] position? Please include a variety of job interview question types in your response.

Please take on the role of a recruiter for a [position] at a [type of company] company and ask me five questions, one at a time, treating me as an applicant for the position. I will respond to each question as an applicant interviewing for the [position title] position. After we complete all five questions, please give me feedback on my responses to each question.

Enhance Your Prompts

Provide the job description.

"I am going to provide you a job description for the position I am interviewing for before you give me the proposed questions. Please wait to provide questions until I give you the job description."

Include a question type in the prompt,

"What are five [interview question type] job interview questions..."
Interview question types that can be inputted into this prompt start are qualifications, behavioural, ability, or industry knowledge.

Add in details about the company.

"...at a clothing store who sells clothing for people of all body types..." or "Here is the website for the company, [insert website], please ensure the questions are informed by the services and values on the company's website."